Designed for women in different seasons of life, the platform brings Catholic faith and practical cycle awareness together in one thoughtful digital experience. Learn more at corviacycle.com.

About Corvia

Corvia is a Catholic cycle-charting app built around the Billings Ovulation Method, bringing cycle awareness, education, and prayer together in one thoughtful space.

Founded by Catholic husband-and-wife team Jubilee and William Schneider, Corvia grew from a personal desire for something they couldn't find: a simple, beautiful way for women to understand their cycles without setting aside their faith.

Rather than predicting fertility through an algorithm, Corvia helps women observe and record their body's natural signs. With guided Billings education, easy-to-read charts, and a dedicated prayer library, the experience encourages women to approach their bodies with knowledge, confidence, and reverence.

Created for different seasons of life, from beginning womanhood to married life and Natural Family Planning, Corvia is designed to be a faithful companion in learning the language of the female body.

Our mission: To provide a simple, faithful way for women to observe, record, and understand their cycles using the Billings Ovulation Method, in alignment with Catholic teaching.

Founders

Jubilee Schneider

CO-FOUNDER & CEO

Jubilee is a Catholic wife, mother of four, and co-founder of Corvia. Her inspiration came from a simple but deeply personal desire: to create a place where women could better understand their bodies while embracing the beauty of their Catholic faith.

She wanted something she could trust for herself, share with other women, and one day pass on to her daughter. Something that honored the dignity of the female body and treated fertility as a gift rather than a problem to solve.

What began as a personal need grew into a larger mission. Through Corvia, Jubilee hopes to help women of all ages approach their cycles with greater understanding, confidence, and appreciation for God's design.

William Schneider

CO-FOUNDER

William is a Catholic husband, father of four, and co-founder of Corvia. With a background in technology, software development, data science, and digital marketing, he has always been drawn to the challenge of turning meaningful ideas into something real.

When Jubilee shared her vision for Corvia, William saw an opportunity to build something that went beyond technology. Together, they wanted to create something that reflected their faith, served a genuine need, and could make a lasting difference in the lives of women and families.

For William, Corvia is deeply personal. It's a chance to build something alongside his wife that reflects the values they're raising their children with. Through Corvia, he brings his technical experience and creative vision to a shared mission of making Catholic cycle education more accessible, thoughtful, and rooted in faith.
