Key investor risks

A decision to invest in the Company should take into all of its objectives as described in the Prospectus. A list of relevant risks can be found in the Prospectus, Annual Report and KID on the Company website

1. An investment in the Company will place capital at risk. The value of investments can go down as well as up, so investors could get back less than the amount invested.
2. Neither past performance nor any forecasts should be considered a reliable indicator of future results.
3. The Company may not meet its investment objective and there is no guarantee that the Company's target level of dividends and other distributions and/or target returns, as may be from time to time, will be met.
4. The Company's investment strategy sees investment risk concentrated in specific assets, geographies and technologies or to specific counterparties. This means that the overall performance of the Company is more sensitive to the returns in respect of those assets, geographies, types of asset and/or counterparties.
5. The Company invests in renewable energy assets which are under construction and, therefore is exposed to certain risks, such as permit risks, cost overruns, construction delay and construction defects, which may be outside the Company's control.
6. Renewable energy assets which are under development may be exposed to risks such as delays in obtaining or the failure to obtain the requisite grid access rights, land consents, planning and/or regulatory consents, and cost overruns which may be outside the Company's control. In certain scenarios it may not be possible for a development to proceed or a development may become unviable for the Company. The Company may not be able to fully recover the value of its investment where a project does not advance beyond the development phase.
7. Renewable energy assets are illiquid and may prove difficult to sell. The price achieved on any realisation may be at a discount to the prevailing valuation of the relevant renewable energy asset(s). This may have an adverse effect on the Company's profitability, the net asset value, and/or the price of the Company's shares.
8. The Company makes investments which are based in countries whose local currency is not Sterling, and makes and/or receives payments that are denominated in currencies other than Sterling. Changes in exchange rates will, therefore, affect the net income and net asset value of the Company.
9. The Company and members of its Group may use borrowings for multiple purposes, including for investment purposes. While the use of borrowings should enhance the total return on the Shares, where the return on the Company's portfolio of Renewable Energy Assets exceeds the cost of borrowing, it will have the opposite effect where the return on the Company's portfolio of Renewable Energy Assets is lower than the cost of borrowing.
10. The Company makes investments in projects and concessions with revenue exposure to power prices. The market price of electricity is volatile and is affected by a variety of factors, including market demand for electricity, the generation mix of power plants, government support for various forms of power generation, as well as fluctuations in the market prices of commodities and foreign exchange. Whilst some of the Company's portfolio of Renewable Energy Assets benefit from fixed price arrangements for a period of time, others have revenue which is based on prevailing power prices.

All metrics are calculated using renewable energy generated by the investment portfolio during the reporting period, proportioned by equity ownership. It includes generation from Ljungbyholm wind farm up to the 30th June 2024.

Equivalent tonnes of carbon avoided are calculated using the 2021 International Financial Institution’s approach for Common Default Grid Emission factors. Reference updated in January 2024 from 2019 to 2021 to reflect most recent emission factors available. Equivalent homes powered by clean energy are calculated based on most recent average household electricity usage values provided by Ofgem (UK) and Odyssee (EU). References and methodology updated in January 2024.

- Although merchant power price forecasts slightly decreased on average over the year, ORIT was well insulated due to its highly fixed revenue base

- The sale of Ljungbyholm and acquisition of the Irish solar assets led to an increase in the average forecast prices within the portfolio

1. The dividend and total return are targets only and not profit forecasts. There can be no assurance that they will be met or that the Company will make any distributions at all and they should not be taken as an indication of the Company's expected future results. Accordingly, potential investors should not place any reliance on these targets in deciding whether or not to invest in the Company and should decide for themselves whether or not the target dividend and target net total shareholder return are reasonable or achievable. 2. Typical returns based on the manager's experience and not profit forecasts. There can be no assurance that actual asset returns will be consistent with the above and they should not be taken as an indication of the Company's future results.

Investment in developers brings optionality over future investment opportunities at construction-ready stage

1. As at 31 December 2024. Following the post-period follow-on investment into Norgen, ORIT's original 50% holding in Nordic Renewables converted into a direct 30% stake in the integrated Norgen development business. An investment in the Company will concern the acquisition shares in the Company, and not any of the underlying assets. Please note that this investment is not necessarily representative of future investments that the Company will make. There can be no guarantee of future success.
