ABOUT BUILDSPACE

Building trust, one project at a time.

BuildSpace is a London-based design-and-build company, specialising in extensions, loft conversions and full home renovations — handling every project from initial design through to the final finish.

This case study takes a look inside one of our recent projects, showing the finished result in pictures.

01

Rear extension

A rear extension turned the back of the house into one open-plan space for cooking, dining and relaxing. Roof windows bring light in from above, and a full-width run of black bifold doors opens the room straight onto new decking, so the garden becomes part of the living space.

02

Kitchen, utility and cloakroom

The new kitchen pairs deep green shaker cabinets with white worktops, a large island with a built-in wine cooler and a herringbone floor that runs through the whole space. A separate utility keeps the washer and dryer out of sight, and a cloakroom with navy panelling and feature wallpaper completes the ground floor.
