

Website and Cookies Policy for SpaceAM Ltd

Introduction

Last updated: July 2026

1. Who we are

This website is operated by SpaceAM [Ltd] ("SpaceAM", "we", "us", "our"), a company registered in England and Wales with its registered in Gloucestershire, United Kingdom.

This policy explains the terms on which you may browse this website, how we handle information collected when you visit, and how we use cookies. It applies to visitors browsing the site. If you contact us, apply for a role, or enter into a contract with us, additional privacy information will be provided at that point.

For any questions about this policy, contact us at office@spaceam.co.uk

2. Using this website

By browsing this website you agree to the following terms. If you do not agree with them, please do not use the site.

You may view, download and print content from this website for your own personal or internal business use. All content on this site, including text, images, graphics, logos and page design, is owned by or licensed to SpaceAM and is protected by copyright, trade mark and other intellectual property laws. You may not reproduce, republish or commercially exploit any content without our prior written consent.

You must not misuse this website. In particular, you must not knowingly introduce viruses or other malicious or harmful material, attempt to gain unauthorised access to the site, the server on which it is hosted, or any connected system, or attack the site by way of a denial of service attack. Doing so may be a criminal offence under the Computer Misuse Act 1990, and we will report any such breach to the relevant law enforcement authorities.

The content of this website is provided for general information only. While we take reasonable care to keep it accurate and up to date, we make no warranties or guarantees, express or implied, that the content is accurate, complete or current, and we may change it at any time without notice. Nothing on this site constitutes professional or technical advice on which you should rely, and nothing in this policy limits or excludes any liability that cannot be limited or excluded under the law of England and Wales, including liability for death or personal injury caused by negligence.

Where this website contains links to other websites, those links are provided for your convenience only. We have no control over the content of linked sites and accept no responsibility for them or for any loss that may arise from your use of them.

3. Your privacy when browsing

SpaceAM is the data controller for personal data collected through this website. We process personal data in accordance with the UK General Data Protection Regulation (UK GDPR) and the Data Protection Act 2018.

When you browse this site, our hosting provider automatically records limited technical information in server logs, including your IP address, browser type and version, the pages you visit and the date and time of your visit. We use this information on the basis of our legitimate interests to keep the website secure, to diagnose technical problems and to understand how the site is used. Server logs are retained for [RETENTION PERIOD, e.g. 90 days] and are then deleted.

If you contact us through the site, we will use the details you provide to respond to your enquiry. We do not sell personal data, and we do not use information collected through browsing this site for automated decision making.

Under UK data protection law you have rights over your personal data, including the right to request access to it, to have it corrected or erased, and to object to or restrict our processing of it. To exercise any of these rights, contact us at [EMAIL ADDRESS]. You also have the right to complain to the Information Commissioner's Office (ICO) at ico.org.uk or on 0303 123 1113.

4. Cookies

Cookies are small text files placed on your device when you visit a website. They help the site work properly and help us understand how it is being used. We use the following categories of cookies on this site.

Strictly necessary cookies

These cookies are essential for the website to function, for example to maintain security and to remember your cookie preferences. They do not require your consent and cannot be switched off through our settings, although you can block them in your browser (in which case parts of the site may not work correctly).

Analytics cookies

We use Google Analytics to collect statistical information about how visitors use the site, such as which pages are most visited and how visitors move around the site. This information is aggregated and is used only by us to improve the website. It is not used to identify you or to build advertising profiles.

Analytics cookies are only set in line with the choice you make in our cookie banner when you first visit the site. You can change your mind at any time, and opt out of analytics cookies, using the [Cookie Settings] link in the footer of every page.

Managing cookies in your browser

Most browsers allow you to refuse or delete cookies through their settings. Guidance for the most common browsers is available at [\[aboutcookies.org\]](https://aboutcookies.org) or through your browser's help pages. If you block all cookies, some parts of this site may not function correctly.

We do not currently use advertising or social media cookies on this site. If that changes, we will update this policy and ask for your consent where the law requires it.

5. Changes to this policy

We may update this policy from time to time, for example to reflect changes to the website, to the cookies we use or to the law. The date at the top of the page shows when it was last revised. Significant changes will be highlighted on the site.

6. Governing law

These terms and this policy are governed by the law of England and Wales, and any dispute arising from your use of this website is subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of the courts of England and Wales.