Terms of Use

Last updated: 22 October 2026

Terms for accessing Intelligent websites, public content and digital interfaces.

1. Acceptance and scope

These Terms describe conditions for using Intelligent’s public website and general digital interfaces. Use must comply with applicable law. Accounts, transactions and regulated services, if offered, are governed by their separately accepted terms.

2. Information on the website

Product descriptions, market commentary, whitepapers, educational materials, research, performance illustrations and AI-generated responses are provided for general information unless expressly stated otherwise in a specific service agreement. They may be incomplete, approximate, delayed or subject to change. They are not a public offer of a financial product in a jurisdiction where doing so would be unlawful.

3. Accounts and permitted use

If access credentials are issued, keep them confidential and use the account only as authorised. Do not impersonate others, interfere with platform security, misuse information, introduce malicious code, reverse engineer protected services where prohibited by law, or use the platform for unlawful activity. Access may be restricted in response to misuse, legal requirements or operational concerns.

4. Intellectual property

The content, design, software, trademarks and materials made available through Intelligent are owned by their respective rights holders. Users may access and use materials for their intended purpose. Redistribution, commercial reuse or removal of rights notices requires permission unless allowed by applicable law.

5. Third-party services

The website may link to external websites, infrastructure, content or service providers. Their availability, terms and privacy practices may differ from ours. A link does not imply that Intelligent controls or guarantees the third-party service.

6. Availability and liability

Information and site features may be interrupted, inaccurate or unavailable. Users should independently evaluate information before making financial decisions. Responsibility for any loss is determined by applicable law and any governing agreement; nothing here limits rights or liabilities that cannot lawfully be excluded.

7. Updates and contact

The website terms may be updated from time to time. Any legally required notice and the terms applicable to an accepted service agreement remain governed by that agreement and applicable law. Questions can be directed through the official Intelligent website.