BIZZARRO APERITIVO (NSW/VIC/ACT ONLY)

Bizzarro is an artisan, Australian aperitivo produced by the team at Delinquente Wine Co. Made from a base of certified organic and biodynamic Vermentino, the wine is infused with 14 different herbs and botanicals, including gentian, turkish rhubarb, orange, blood orange and lemon – the citrus all sourced from organic growers in the Riverland. The result is an aperitivo that is more subtle and approachable in flavor, which perfectly balances sweet and bitter, and is tailor made for our alfresco Australian lifestyle.

The Bizzarro range of canned cocktails are perfectly blended and insanely refreshing aperitivo drinks. Adhering to the philosophy of all natural ingredients and creating drinks with provenance, they are the antithesis to generic, sugar laden RTD's.

These same canned cocktails are also available in 20L kegs. Plugging directly into your standard beer tap systems, they guarantee perfectly mixed cocktails at every pour, with minimal labour, and an unmatched cost per serve.

DELINQUENTE (NSW/VIC/ACT ONLY)

05

Delinquente is the needle in the haystack rarely found in a region often associated with high volume, low-quality wines. Since founding Delinquente in 2013, Con-Greg Grigoriou has brought a lifetime of experience being surrounded by the wine industry together to produce eye-popping, dangerously drinkable wines from the Southern Italian varieties that take to the Riverland climate so well. All fruit is sourced from family owned, certified organic and biodynamic vineyards.

DAS JUICE

06

Das Juice has a simple goal: to make well-farmed, well-made wines at a sharper price point without compromising on quality or integrity. Sourcing fruit primarily from certified organic and biodynamic vineyards across South Australia, the wines are always organically farmed, made with minimal intervention, wild ferments, a small amount of sulphur, and a strong focus on pure drinkability. Das Juice is an honest, lo-fi label focused on expressive, approachable wines made to be opened, shared, and enjoyed— nothing but juice.

A.R.C, or A Random Collection, was founded by James and Jessica Audas in 2017 after years spent working restaurant floors and dreaming about making wine themselves. From early vintages sourcing fruit across Victoria to four formative seasons farming 4ha of biodynamic vines at Bull Swamp in West Gippsland, the project has been shaped by almost a decade of farming, making and learning. At the end of 2023, A.R.C moved to South Australia and today focuses entirely on McLaren Vale, working with trusted organic growers and just two varieties: Grenache and Savagnin. Savagnin has a particularly personal connection for James, who first worked with the variety during vintage in the Jura in 2013. Years of experimentation have gradually given way to a more focused and classical approach, with an emphasis on site, precision, structure and longevity, while retaining the thoughtful, hands-off winemaking that has always underpinned A.R.C. James has also become more patient with the wines; longer élevage is increasingly important to his approach and wines are released when ready rather than to a prescribed schedule. After almost a decade, the collection has become considerably less random: McLaren Vale is now firmly home, with A.R.C focused on Grenache and Savagnin and giving both the attention and time they deserve.

Ada Wine Co is the passion project of James Ellis who has honed his craft with an extensive list of industry experience since leaving his Winemaking Studies in 2014. He has worked as a viticulturist for large corporates like Penfolds in the Barossa Valley and Winemaking roles for small, premium wineries like Gentle Folk wines in the Adelaide Hills. A viticulturist at heart James firmly believes that all of his wines are made in the vineyard and he is meticulous with his approach to management and organics across the sites he sources for Ada. The wines he crafts are textured, considered and driven by their terroir.

CHÂTEAU ACID

Simon Jones and Charlie O'Brien are two old friends from Sydney who both found their way to wine after separate careers in their 20's. Since 2017 they have been making wines from a single biodynamic vineyard in the hills of Central Ranges NSW. This is a relatively unknown and highly underrated region, with sandy granite soils, abundant sunshine and cool nights that are perfect for ripening varieties like Grenache, Syrah and Vermentino. The winemaking is carefully hands-off, preferring slow ageing in vessels and in bottle to produce salty whites and deep reds of uncommon character and complexity.

DILWORTH AND ALLAIN

Dilworth & Allain produces wines of place — wines that reflect the landscape of the region and the season in which the grapes are grown. Founded by Chris Dilworth and Louique Allain in 2017, their winemaking process is intuitive and considered, allowing each wine to develop its own distinctive character.

The wines are made to enhance texture and complexity, without unnecessary intervention. Small amounts of sulphur dioxide are the only addition, with fining and filtration eschewed. Wines are bottled after a minimum of 15 months' élevage, allowing time for them to mature appropriately.

Working with vineyards of distinct character, thoughtfully grown across varied geologies, provides grapes of exceptional quality and character, allowing for maximum expression in the resulting wines.

Andrew and Louise are a husband-and-wife team who returned to Mount Gambier to raise their family and establish Good Intentions Wine Co. They released their first vintage in 2014 alongside the birth of their daughter, Frankie. Rooted in Andrew's farming background and the region's unique volcanic soils, they farm two organic vineyard sites in Moorak. The first, Volcanic Lakes Vineyard, sits at the base of the Blue Lake / Warwar crater and is planted to Chardonnay on rich volcanic ash soils. Originally planted in 1997, it has been carefully restored into a thriving, high-quality site. Their second site, Lake of Fire Vineyard at their home farm, is a high-density, chemical-free planting established in 2018, featuring Pinot Noir, Cabernet Franc, Shiraz, Riesling and Pinot Gris. It reflects their experimental, site-driven approach and produced its first estate wine in 2023.

Saep Wines is the Adelaide Hills-based project of longtime viticulturist Dave Gartelmann. He’s a great farmer that embraces all things organic and biodynamic and the wines have a superbly detailed finesse and inherent drinkability that we love. He is deeply committed to the conversion of vineyards from conventional to organic viticulture and his passion for his home regions of Adelaide Hills and McLaren Vale is palpable. Winemaking wise Dave has taken great influence from dear friend Abel Gibson who mentored him in the early years of Saep.

SEAVIEW RIDGE

Seaview Ridge is the estate wine label of Chateau Acid’s Simon Jones and Charles O’Brien, spanning 1.6 hectares in Victoria’s cool-climate Baw Baw Shire, Gippsland. Inspired by the region’s unique terroir of iron-rich volcanic soils and position between the Victorian Alps and Bass Strait, Simon and his wife Olivia purchased their Seaview vineyard in 2020 and in the same year began leasing a parcel at the famed Bull Swamp vineyard in Warragul. With a background in minimal intervention winemaking under their Château Acid label, Simon and Charles’ focus here is quality, terroir-driven wines. Organic, no-till farming and long ageing in the cellar reflect a deep commitment to vibrancy, precision, and the expression of place in this boundary-pushing region.

WILLIAM DOWNIE (NSW/ACT) (NEW)

Bill Downie is an Australian Pinot Noir icon. He grew up in Gippsland, launching his career with a formative two-year stint under Phillip Jones at Bass Phillip before rising to senior winemaker at De Bortoli in 2006. Alongside this, he founded his own label in 2003, crafting acclaimed Pinot Noir from the Yarra Valley, Gippsland, and Mornington Peninsula, and further refined his craft through harvests in Burgundy with Fourrier and Hubert Lignier. Downie returned to Gippsland in 2007, planting the high-density Guendulain Farm vineyard with his wife Rachel and farming select volcanic sites in Baw Baw Shire, while also sourcing fruit from Upper Goulburn, King Valley, and Mornington Peninsula for his regional wines, which showcase his Pinot Noir mastery and the character of their diverse terroirs.
