Powering a new era of connectivity with WMTx

TOKEN ECONOMY

February 2025

WMTx stakeholders and economy.

WMTx powers the circular economic incentives of the World Mobile Chain.

World Mobile Chain handles all telecommunications processing and other transactions on the network.

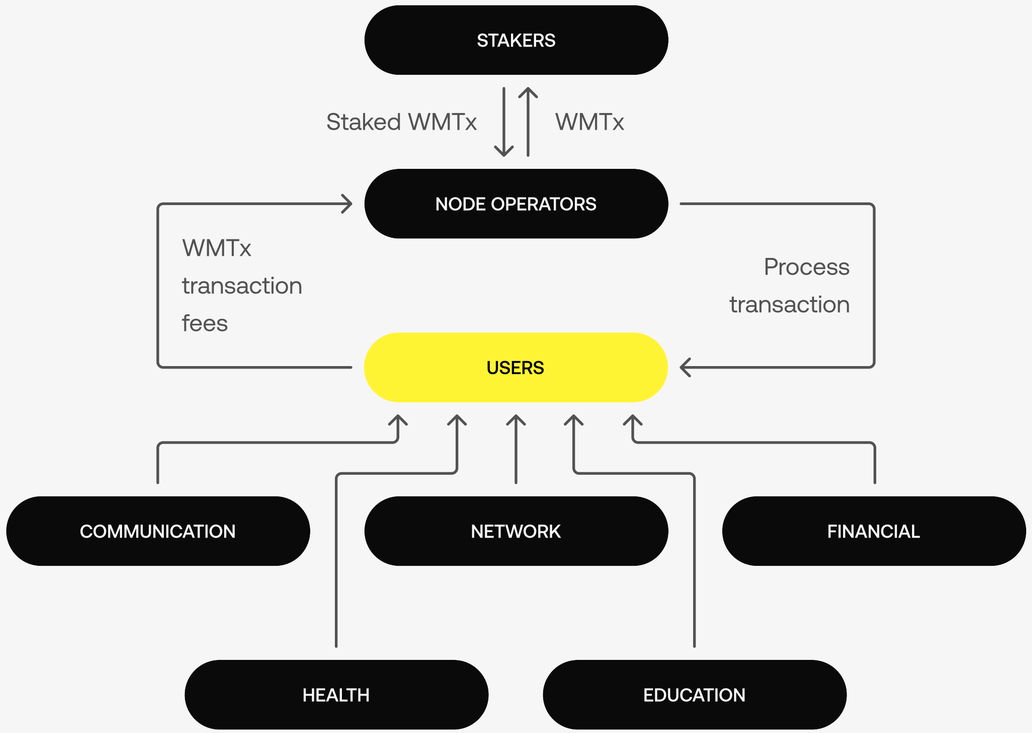

The EarthNode infrastructure implements a Delegated Proof of Stake (DPoS) consensus mechanism for data validation across the World Mobile Network. Operators who maintain EarthNodes receive WMTx tokens as rewards for their roles in validating and processing network data, which is subsequently settled on the World Mobile Chain.

Beyond core validation duties, EarthNode operators have the option to provide additional decentralized services, including Virtual Private Network (VPN) infrastructure and distributed storage solutions. These supplementary services are incentivized through WMTx token buyback programs, creating an additional rewards stream for operators while expanding the network's utility.

Node operators & stakers secure the network.

The aggregate revenues of node operators will equal the aggregate network fees on World Mobile Chain.

Stakers will be able to stake their tokens to node operators of choice, and will in turn be awarded a share of transaction fees.

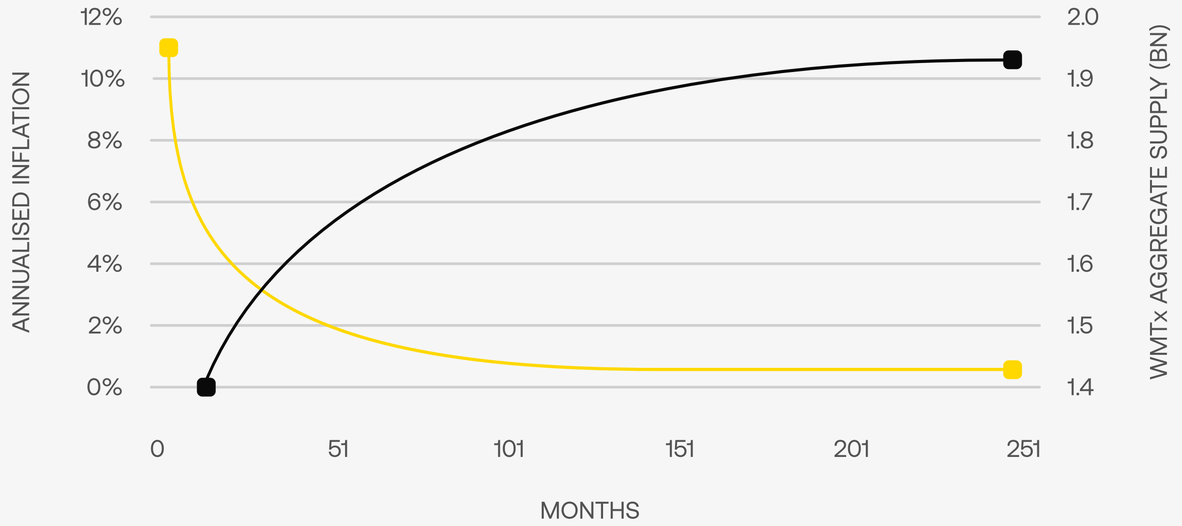

Mainnet inflation.

Node operators and stakers will also be rewarded through inflation paid in WMTx.

29% of aggregate WMTx supply allocated towards inflation rewards.

Decelerating inflation ensuring higher rewards at the early stage of the network and arriving at nil inflation in year 20. This ensures a balance between the risk and the rewards for node operators at the various stages of maturity of the network.

Network inflation over time

Aggregate supply versus annualized inflation post mainnet launch.

Inflation will be attributable to node operators and stakers

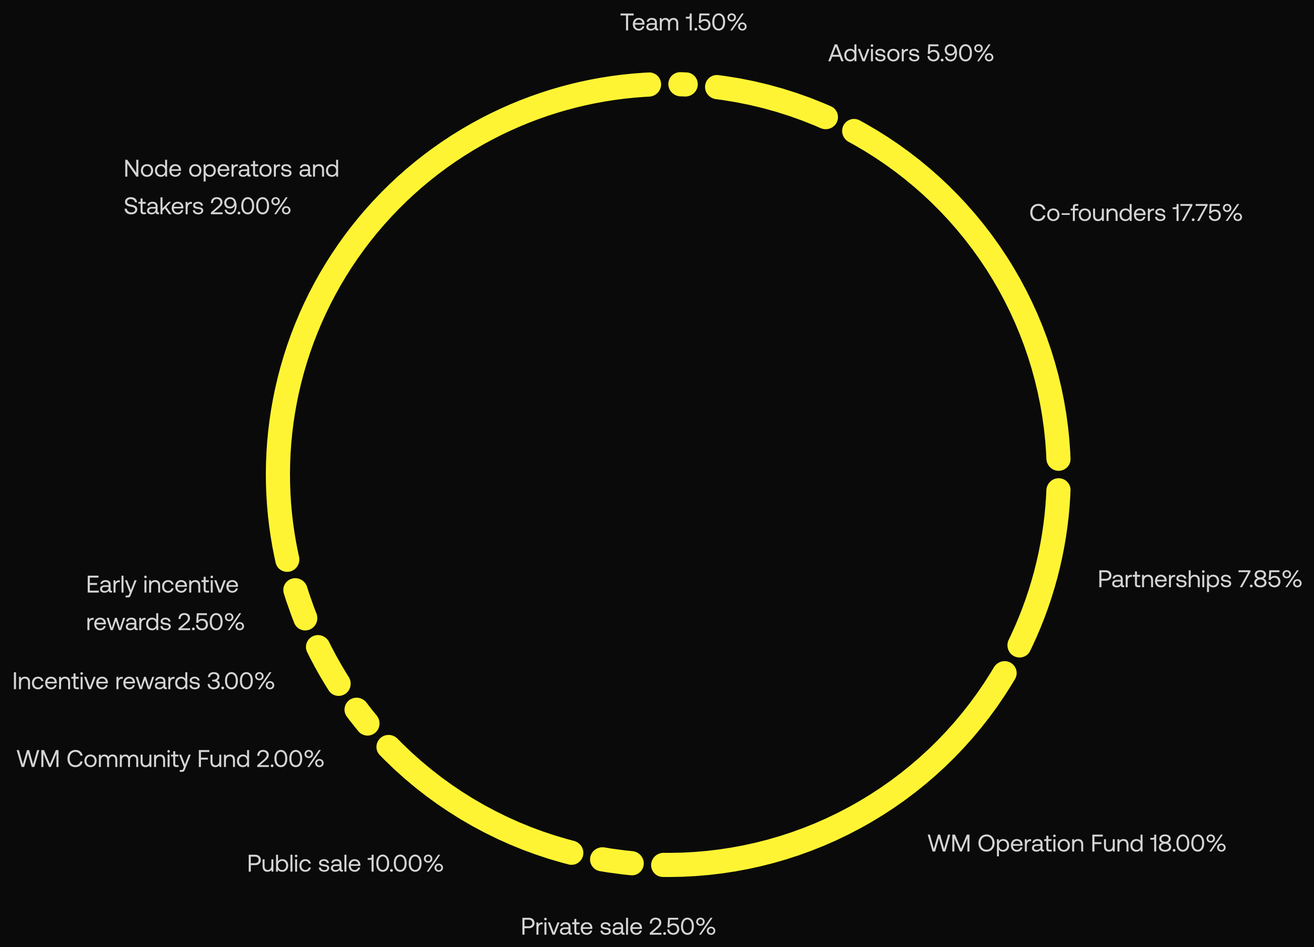

The rate of monthly inflation is calculated as the initial rate of inflation divided by the time since launch + 1 month.

The initial rate of inflation is 11.41% p.a. in order to target a 2B aggregate WMTx supply in year 20. Total token inflation over a 20-year period represents 29% of the aggregate WMT supply less tokens issued during extended early staking programme..
