

Name the worry. Then write the rule.

These are the fears people bring to AI. Every one is reasonable. Here's the rule in your policy that answers each one.

"Private information about the people we serve will leak."

EVERYONE

Personal information never goes into AI chat tools. Anything that handles it gets a written privacy check.

"AI will make things up, and we'll send it out."

LEADERS, FUNDERS

A person checks every fact before anything leaves.

"AI will make unfair decisions about people."

COMMUNITIES

AI never decides who gets help, money or a job. We check for bias first.

"The people we serve won't know, or won't have a choice."

COMMUNITIES

We tell them, explain on request, and always offer a person instead.

"AI will replace our staff."

STAFF

AI takes on paperwork. People keep the work with people.

"We'll lose the human touch."

DONORS, LEADERS

We tell people when AI helped, and a person signs everything.

"We don't know where our data goes."

FUNDERS, BOARDS

Every tool is listed, with where it keeps data.

"If it goes wrong, nobody is responsible."

EVERYONE

A named person answers for it, and we tell people quickly.

Talk about it: Which of these worries you most? What's missing from this list?
