The Lamb's Chapel Announces Official Organizational Renaming and School Relocation Plan

Burlington, NC — 10/13/26 — The Lamb's Chapel today announced an official name change for both the church and its educational ministry, Grace Christian Academy. Moving forward, the congregation will be known as Legacy Church, and the school will transition to Legacy Christian School.

The updated names reflect a unified vision and future for both entities. The school, which is and has always been a ministry of the church, shares an identical mission and core purpose with the congregation, cultivating character, academic excellence, and spiritual growth in the surrounding community.

In addition to the renaming, leadership announced plans to relocate Legacy Christian School to the primary church campus by the 2027–2028 school year. Unifying our ministries on a single campus fulfills our mission to reach, raise, and release the next generation, streamlining facilities, enhancing security, and fostering a deeply connected environment for church and school families alike.

"This transition aligns our visual identity with the unified vision we hold across both our church and school ministries," said Pastor Scott Grimm, Senior Pastor at Legacy Church. "Bringing our school to the main campus strengthens our ability to serve our students and families, ensuring our shared mission remains at the heart of everything we do."

The transition will roll out in structured phases: the church will begin updating its website, social media channels, and digital communications in October and November, while the official name change for the school will take effect at the start of the next school year to align with the upcoming campus move.

Community members are invited to attend service on Sunday mornings at 9:00am and 11:00am and Wednesday evenings at 6:30pm at 3539 Alamance Rd, Burlington, NC.
