

Veyne Group Privacy Policy

Veyne Group ("Veyne", "we", "us" or "our") respects your privacy and is committed to protecting personal data.

This Privacy Policy explains how we collect, use, store and disclose personal data when you visit our website, communicate with us or engage with our services.

1. Who we are

The controller responsible for your personal data is:

Veyne Group
Schwanthalerstraße 166
80339 Munich
Germany

contact@veynegroup.com

For questions about this Privacy Policy or the way we process personal data, please contact us using the details above.

2. Personal data we collect

We may collect personal data that you provide directly to us, including your name, job title, company, email address, telephone number and information contained in correspondence or enquiries.

Where you engage Veyne in connection with an advisory mandate or other professional service, we may also process business contact information, transaction-related information and other information reasonably necessary to provide our services.

When you use our website, certain technical information may be collected automatically, including your IP address, browser type, device information, pages visited, referral information and similar usage data.

We do not intentionally collect special categories of personal data unless this is necessary for a specific engagement or required by law.

3. How we use personal data

We may use personal data to respond to enquiries, communicate with clients and prospective clients, provide our services, administer engagements, maintain business relationships and operate and improve our website.

We may also process personal data for internal administration, record-keeping, security, fraud prevention, compliance with legal obligations and the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims.

Where permitted by law, we may use business contact information to communicate with you about Veyne, our services or matters that we reasonably believe may be relevant to your professional interests.

4. Legal bases for processing

Depending on the circumstances, we process personal data on one or more of the following legal bases.

Processing may be necessary to perform a contract with you or to take steps at your request before entering into a contract.

We may process data where necessary to comply with legal obligations applicable to Veyne.

We may also process personal data where necessary for our legitimate interests, including operating our business, maintaining professional relationships, providing and improving our services, protecting our systems and pursuing or defending legal claims, provided those interests are not overridden by your rights and interests.

Where required, we will rely on your consent. Where processing is based on consent, you may withdraw that consent at any time. Withdrawal does not affect the lawfulness of processing carried out before consent was withdrawn.

These are recognised lawful bases under Article 6 GDPR.

5. Who we share personal data with

We may share personal data with service providers that support our business, including providers of website hosting, cloud infrastructure, email, document management, CRM, accounting, legal and professional services.

In connection with client engagements, we may also share relevant information with investors, lenders, advisers, counterparties or other third parties where this is necessary to provide the agreed services and where appropriate safeguards are in place.

We may disclose personal data where required by law, regulation, court order or a competent authority.

We do not sell personal data.

6. International transfers

Some of our service providers or counterparties may process personal data outside Germany or the European Economic Area.

Where personal data is transferred to a country that does not benefit from an adequacy decision under applicable data protection law, we will take appropriate steps to protect the data, which may include the use of approved contractual safeguards or other lawful transfer mechanisms.

7. Data retention

We retain personal data only for as long as reasonably necessary for the purposes for which it was collected.

Retention periods may vary depending on the nature of the information, the relevant client engagement, applicable legal or regulatory requirements and our legitimate business needs.

Where data is no longer required, we will delete or anonymise it where reasonably practicable.

8. Cookies and website technologies

Our website may use cookies and similar technologies necessary for the website to function properly.

We may also use analytics or other non-essential technologies to understand how visitors use our website and to improve its performance. Where consent is required for such technologies, they will only be used after the appropriate consent has been obtained.

Under German law, storing information on or accessing information from a user's device generally requires consent unless the technology is strictly necessary to provide a service expressly requested by the user or is required for transmission of a communication.

You can manage your cookie preferences through the cookie controls made available on our website and, where applicable, through your browser settings.

9. Your data protection rights

Subject to applicable law, you may have the right to request access to the personal data we hold about you, request correction of inaccurate information, request deletion of your data, request restriction of processing, object to certain processing and receive certain personal data in a portable format.

Where we rely on legitimate interests, you may object to processing on grounds relating to your particular situation. Where personal data is used for direct marketing, you may object to that use at any time.

You may also withdraw consent where consent is the legal basis for processing.

To exercise any of these rights, please contact us at contact@veynegroup.com.

10. Security

We take reasonable technical and organisational measures designed to protect personal data against unauthorised access, loss, misuse, alteration or disclosure.

However, no method of transmitting or storing information can be guaranteed to be completely secure.

11. Third-party websites

Our website may contain links to third-party websites or services.

We are not responsible for the privacy practices or content of those third parties. We recommend reviewing their privacy policies before providing personal information.

12. Complaints

If you have concerns about the way we process your personal data, we encourage you to contact us first so that we can try to resolve the matter.

You also have the right to lodge a complaint with the competent data protection supervisory authority.

For Veyne Group, the relevant supervisory authority will generally be the competent data protection authority in Bavaria.

13. Changes to this Privacy Policy

We may update this Privacy Policy from time to time to reflect changes to our business, website, services or legal obligations.

The latest version will be published on this website together with the date on which it was last updated.