THE BASICS

Why chatting is where the money is

Your feed gets fans through the door. Your DMs are where they actually spend. Fans who feel a real connection with you stay subscribed for months, tip more, and buy more of your paid content. The goal isn't one big sale; it's a fan who keeps coming back.

Connection — he feels heard & liked

+

Attraction — he wants you

=

Long-term fan — higher lifetime value

Jump straight into sexting and you might get a sale or two. Build the connection first and you get a fan who spends consistently.

Every great chat has three stages

01

Connect

Normal, genuine conversation. Find out who he is, share your day, and make him feel heard.

02

Flirt

Spot his buying signals and gently turn the heat up, starting with a free tease.

03

Sell

Walk him up a pricing ladder of paid content, chatting naturally the whole way.

Words you'll see in this guide

SET
A group of photos and videos from one shoot, saved in your vault.

SEQUENCE
The flirty chat that goes with a set, message by message.

SCRIPT
Set + sequence together. A ready-to-run chat you can reuse with every fan.

PPV
Pay-per-view. Locked content he pays to open in your DMs.

BUYING SIGNAL
A hint he's ready for spicier chat and willing to spend.

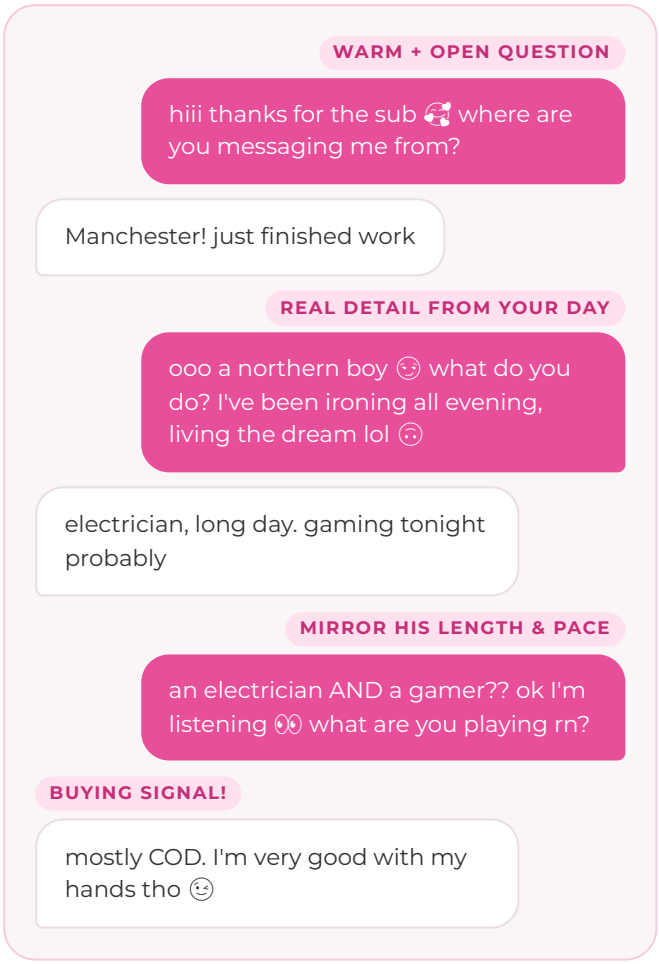

LTV
Lifetime value. How much a fan spends with you over his whole subscription.

STAGE 01

Open the conversation & connect

Talk to him like you would on a dating app or a first date. Don't overcomplicate it: natural is best. The topic matters less than the feeling that he's being listened to and getting real, engaged replies back.

- Thank him & ask about him. Where is he from? What does he do? What's he up to tonight?
- Ask open questions. Ones that can't be answered with a yes or no keep him talking.
- Share real details. Not "it's been ok babe". Tell him what you actually did today. When you open up, he opens up, and so does his wallet.
- Mirror him. Match the length of his messages, his speed and his emoji use. If he writes a paragraph, reply to each part of it.
- Find common ground. Gaming, food, films, star signs. Shared interests build real rapport.
- Use emojis. They add warmth and tone that plain text can't.
- Take notes. Write down his name, job, city and interests, and bring them up next time. Nothing builds loyalty like being remembered.

Note his job, his city and his game in your notes. They're perfect for your next conversation.

How long should you chat before flirting?

Usually 5 to 20 minutes. If he's pushing for spicy chat sooner, roll with it. If he isn't, don't let it drift for an hour with no sale. After 15–20 minutes of good chat, it's time to move to stage 2.

STAGE 02

Flirt & make the transition

The best transitions don't feel like a sales pitch. They grow out of the conversation you're already having. Watch for his buying signals, then tie your first tease to whatever you've been talking about.

Buying signals to look for

- He tips you, even a small one
- He compliments your body or outfit
- Innuendo, e.g. "good with my hands 😉"
- He asks what you're wearing or doing
- He sends you a photo first
- He replies fast and writes more

Even a small tip at the start says "I want your attention and I'm here to spend". Jump on these moments.

Easy ways to make the switch

The outfit move

"Just got into my PJs... sort of 🙈 this is me rn btw"

The new-purchase move

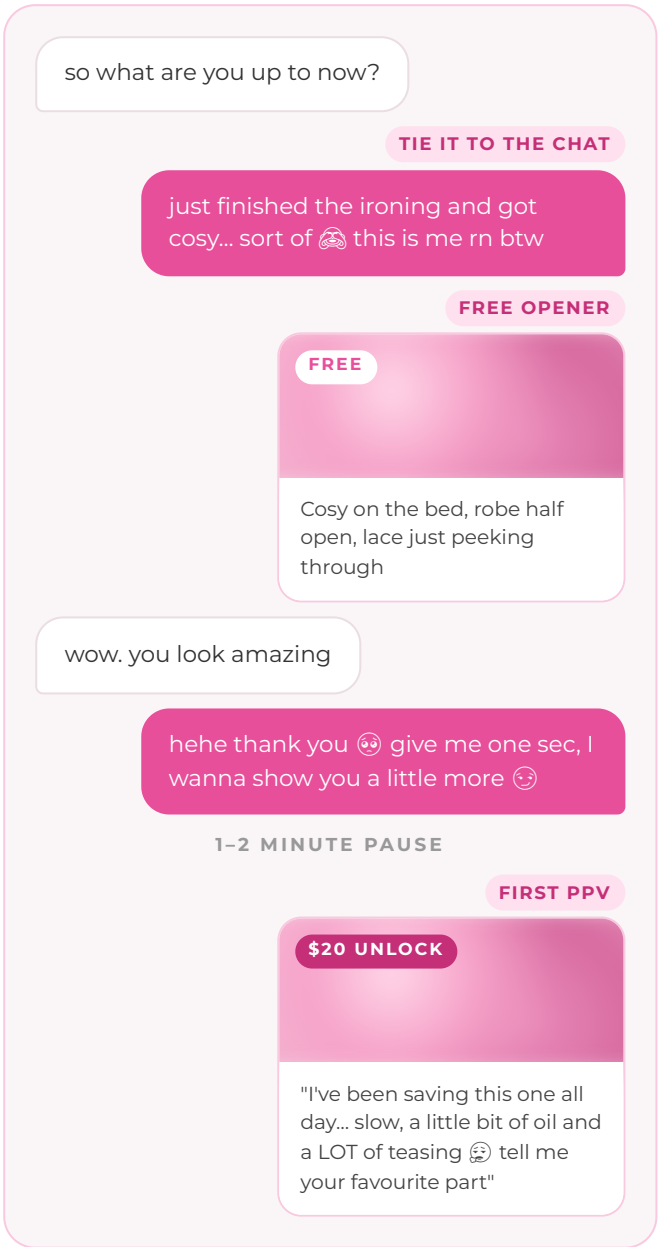

"I got a new set today and I can't decide if it's too much... be honest?"

The fantasy bridge

Talking games or films? "Ok but what are your naughty fantasies? 😏"

The preference ask

"Be honest... are you a bum guy or a boobs guy? 👀"

- Start free. One free photo or a short, non-explicit clip from the set gets him hooked.
- Ask what he likes. Then pick content from your vault to match it. He's far more likely to buy.
- Take a short pause before you send. A minute or two feels natural, like you're getting ready.

STAGE 03

Sell with a pricing ladder

Once he's unlocked something, you climb a "ladder": each piece of content is a little spicier and a little pricier than the last. Keep chatting between every send. He should feel like the conversation just keeps getting better, not like he's suddenly being sold to.

For a brand-new fan, start the first PPV around $15–20 to see if he'll buy. With a warm fan you already know, opening at $40 works well. Real example: 3 photos $30 → 3 videos $60 → $100 → $150 finale.

Sell the feeling, not the file

WEAK CAPTION

"new vid $30 🍆"

STRONG CAPTION

"This one's slower... I start in your favourite lace set and you get to watch it come off piece by piece 😮‍💨 I was thinking about you the whole time"

Rules for the selling stage

1. Keep the same energy
   If you went from long, engaged replies to one-liners and PPVs, he'll notice. Keep replying to everything he says.

2. Personalise every send
   Bum guy? Boobs guy? Choose the clips from your set that match what he's told you.

3. Add voice notes
   Your voice makes it feel real and personal in a way content alone can't.

4. Use free pieces wisely
   A short free clip mid-script keeps momentum and makes the next unlock feel generous.

5. Keep going while he's in
   If he hasn't signalled he wants to stop, don't stop. Run out of set? "Let me freshen up for you..." and start another.

6. End with a hook
   Thank him and give him a reason to come back: "same time tomorrow? I'll have a little surprise 😘"

SHOOTING FOR CHAT

Shoot sequences, not random content

Random photos are hard to sell in DMs. A sequence is a set shot as a little story, from an everyday moment to a full finale. Pair it with a script and you can send the same sequence to every new fan, again and again. Shoot once, sell forever.

Example: the "ironing" sequence

A great first sequence for new fans. You're doing the ironing in lingerie under a robe, you finish up, head to the bedroom, and things heat up from there.

FREE 01

Photo
Selfie at the ironing board, robe zipped over lingerie.

OPENER: THANKS FOR THE SUB

Photo
Robe slipping open, a hint of lace underneath.

TEASE THE OUTFIT

FREE 03

POV clip
Walking from the ironing board to the bedroom.

TRANSITION SHOT

$15 04

Video · 20–30s
Lying back on the bed, lingerie slowly comes off.

FIRST UNLOCK

$25 05

Video · 30–40s
Playful teasing straight to camera.

BUILD THE HEAT

$40 06

Video · 1–1.5 min
Slow, sensual POV warm-up. Not the finale yet.

MAIN EVENT

$50 07

Video · 1 min
More intimate POV that feels personal to him.

ESCALATE

Photo
Holding a toy: "look what I found..."

SET UP THE FINALE

$60 09

Video · 2.5–3 min
The full finale.

PEAK

FREE 10

Clip · 5–10s
The aftermath, plus "same time tomorrow?"

HOOK FOR NEXT TIME

Total if a fan unlocks the whole sequence (prices are a starting point): $190 per fan

Why this works

It opens with something completely normal. The fan feels like he's catching you mid-evening on Snapchat, not being shown an ad. Every step escalates a little, so each unlock feels like the natural next step in the story.

SHOOTING FOR CHAT

How to shoot a sequence

- [ ] Plan the story first
  Decide the 'why' (ironing, gym, date night) and the outfit before you hit record.
- [ ] Keep the time neutral
  Indoors, lights on. No windows that give away day or night, so it works any time.
- [ ] Layer your outfit
  Lingerie under a robe or hoodie gives you a natural reveal to build on.
- [ ] Shoot like a Snapchat
  Selfies and POV clips, as if you're showing a friend what you're up to.
- [ ] Get lots of short pieces
  Plenty of photos and 15–30s clips, plus the transition shots between rooms.
- [ ] Escalate slowly
  Short reveal → tease → warm-up → finale. Each clip a little longer and spicier.
- [ ] Shoot more than you need
  Extra angles let you personalise for each fan and swap pieces around.
- [ ] File it in order
  Save the set in your vault in sequence, with prices noted, so it's ready to send.

Turn it into a script

Write the chat alongside the set so each piece of content has its moment. Use this as your template:

#	Step	Content	Price	Chat goal
1	Connect	Chat, no content	Free	Find out who he is. Note everything.
2	Opener	1–3 casual photos	Free	"This is me rn btw"
3	First tease	Short clip	$15–20	Test if he'll buy. Describe the feeling.
4	Build	2–3 clips	$25–50	Sext between every send. Personalise.
5	Peak	Longest video	$60–150	Your best caption. Voice note helps.
6	Close	Free aftermath clip	Free	Thank him + hook for tomorrow.

CHEAT SHEET

Quick reference

Do

- Reply to every point he makes
- Match his length, speed and emoji use
- Ask open questions, then remember the answers
- Keep notes on every fan
- Describe how content feels, not just what it is
- Use voice notes to feel real
- Keep going while he's still engaged
- End warmly with a reason to come back

Don't

- Jump straight into selling
- Switch to one-word replies once he's paying
- Send PPVs back-to-back with no chat
- Send content that doesn't match what he likes
- Let the conversation die without a hook

Keep it real. Pacing and a natural pause make chats feel personal, but don't tell a fan that pre-made content was filmed live or just for him. It goes against OnlyFans' rules on misleading fans, and if he works it out, you lose the trust (and the long-term spending) you've built.
